

Store going strong as

“ This year we have opened our new first floor showroom, giving an even greater choice for customers with almost 200 major appliances on display ”

ONE of Glossop's landmark stores is about to celebrate 40 years in business.

From small beginnings David Wood Domestic Appliances in High Street West, has recently extended again to provide a new first floor showroom and an even greater range of appliances for customers.

Today the store is run by Chris Wood, David's son who has worked for the business since 1999 and took over when David retired in 2015.

Chris and his staff will be marking the 40th anniversary on October 4.

The family-run electrical store, which is part of the Euronics network, sells a large range of freestanding, integrated and small appliances as well as electrical accessories and light bulbs.

Thriving

David Wood Domestic Appliances opened in 1982, in a small shop previously run as a greengrocer. David had been looking for premises to set up his business and decided that Glossop's high street looked like a busy thriving shopping centre and an ideal place to site his business.

Throughout the 1980's David and his wife Julie worked hard and their decision to open in Glossop proved a success. By the early 1990s, David was looking for bigger premises and when the shop next door became vacant, David bought it and knocked through to double the size of his business.

In 1997, David joined Euronics, Europe's biggest independent electrical buying group. This gave David better buying power and great deals, enabling him to compete with the larger stores, while still remaining on the High street.

The business now also sells on-line and prides itself on one of the best choices of appliances in the local region.

Chris said: "This year we have opened our new first floor showroom, giving an even greater choice for customers with almost 200 major appliances on display. People still like to shop locally and see what they are buying, and we can now give the best choice and value in the area. Hopefully people will stay loyal to the High street for years to come."

As well as an extensive choice, David Wood Domestic Appliances always have regular special offers on market leading brands such as Bosch and Hotpoint. The business also offers a delivery, connection and recycling service on all major appliances for their customers.

Efficiency

Chris said that today's customers are also looking for energy saving programmes on their appliances - particularly given the current cost-of-living and huge energy price rises. He said: "This has definitely become a huge factor when buying a new appliance. We have also seen a massive growth in heat pump energy efficient tumble dryers."

When customers visit the showroom, it's not just the large appliances like washing machines, dishwashers, ovens and fridge freezers that they are looking for. A good range of smaller household appliances is also available including kettles, toasters, air fryers, microwaves,

“ Hopefully people will stay loyal to the High street for years to come ”
